

From the Department of Information Technology at B-W

Students at B-W will use technology as an integral part of their college experience. Most faculty utilize technology in the classroom and as part of the curriculum. The College's Course Management System, "Blackboard," facilitates an online, interactive approach to teaching and learning. Thirty-five computer labs, live network ports in student rooms, and wireless service across campus provide ready access to the B-W network and the Internet for academic, social, and administrative purposes.
