This course will provide students an introductory overview of the public relations process in healthcare organizations. It emphasizes the role and value of public relations professionals in today's competitive healthcare marketplace. Healthcare organizations must successfully communicate with many audiences. Public relations practitioners and their healthcare organizations must consider the many ways to distribute the right message(s) to the right audience(s) at the right time(s). A public relations practitioner's skills must include oral and written communication and critical thinking skills. These skills will enable today's healthcare professionals to assist in organizational and campaign strategies development, implementation, and evaluation.	3	01:00PM-02:15PM	TTH	KLES	219	J. Miller

* MTH-137-S01	Math Model. & Quant. Analysis The course takes a numerical and modeling approach to the analysis of contextual-based mathematics with a de-emphasis on algebraic manipulations. Students utilize both paper-and-pencil and current technologies to further develop quantitative reasoning. Topics may include collecting, organizing, and interpreting sets of univariate data, fitting functions and graphs to bivariate data including linear and non-linear models, problem-solving, decision-making, probability and statistics. The focus is activity-based with a high-level of student engagement. The course satisfies the core mathematics requirement.	3	08:15AM-09:05AM	MWF	MACS	148	M. Dennison

Some attention may also be given to the theme in the non-Western religious tradition. Beginning with figures like Aristotle and Cicero, the classical Western philosophical period bequeathed a rich tradition of friendship to the emerging Christian tradition. The course examines how within Christianity the theme "friendship" became "spiritual friendship." Significant attention will be given to the contemporary value of cultivating spiritual friendship. There will be an experiential dimension in the seminar.	3	10:40AM-11:30AM	MWF	MART	314	A. Kolp

! SOC-260-S01	Death & Dying This course is designed to analyze the relationship between death and health with emphasis upon the biological, psychological, bioethical, and legal aspects of death in contemporary society. We will also be investigating the religious/spiritual aspects of death and dying. The most important thing we do in this class is learn how to live better, more fulfilling lives as we keep our mortality in view. This class is designed for you to explore who you are, what you believe, and how you want to live your life as you prepare for your inevitable death. This class will help you deal with past, present, and future losses, and will prepare you to help others who are dealing with loss.
