Philosophy

! PHL-205I-RC1	Environmental Ethics Core Academic Skill: CT Core Academic Skill: WC In this course students explore the ethical issues associated with the impact of human activity on the environment, eco-systems, and biodiversity. The course facilitates sustained exploration of the question whether environmental issues merely require a special application of traditional ethical categories, or a dramatic overhaul of those categories. Is traditional ethics too anthropocentric? Does the goal of sustainability "demand" a new biocentric ethic?	3	06:15PM-09:15PM	W	MART 104	K. Coble

!* REL-293D-RC1	Race/Rel/Gender/Sex in Movies Core Academic Skill: CT Core Academic Skill: WC The full title of this course is "Resisting Spectators: Race, Religion, Gender & Sexuality in the Movies." Films are powerful vehicles of cultural story telling. They reveal how we understand our world and ourselves. For many, films also subtly influence the way we think about and respond to such life-shaping issues as race, gender, religion, and sexuality. This course will explore the complex ways films present narratives and images about religion, race, gender and sexuality. Students will learn how to critically interrogate and deconstruct the various ways films suggest particular meanings about these potent issues. The structure of the course will be significantly dialogical, involving critical discussion of selected films and reading materials. Students will be required to do weekly writing assignments that critically analyze the films in relation to assigned readings, class discussion and their own reflection.	3	06:15PM-09:15PM	T	MART	316	J. ! SOC-260-FC1	Death &amp; Dying This course is designed to analyze the relationship between death and health with emphasis upon the biological, psychological, bioethical, and legal aspects of death in contemporary society. We will also be investigating the religious/spiritual aspects of death and dying. The most important thing we do in this class is learn how to live better, more fulfilling lives as we keep our mortality in view. This class is designed for you to explore who you are, what you believe, and how you want to live your life as you prepare for your inevitable death. This class will help you deal with past, present, and future losses, and will prepare you to help others who are dealing with loss.
