!* HIS-260-RC1	America During the 1960s Preq: One 100-level history course. Core Academic Skill: WC Core Academic Skill: CT This course will provide an in-depth look at the major themes and issues of the 1960s in the United States, from the election of John F. Kennedy in 1960 through the fall of Saigon in 1975, a period that remains crucial for an understanding of contemporary times. Major topics to be discussed include the great movements and protests of the era, the high tide of Liberalism with the New Frontier & Great Society, the counterculture, the Cold War & Vietnam and the resurgence of Conservatism. By focusing on political, social, cultural and economic developments from this defining period in American history, students will develop a deeper understanding of the most important decade in the second half of the twentieth century. Throughout the course, the important role and struggle of ordinary people to change the course of America will be highlighted.	3	06:15PM-09:15PM	W	DECH 301 T. Mieyal

Films are powerful vehicles of cultural story telling. They reveal how we understand our world and ourselves. For many, films also subtly influence the way we think about and respond to such life-shaping issues as race, gender, religion, and sexuality. This course will explore the complex ways films present narratives and images about religion, race, gender and sexuality. Students will learn how to critically interrogate and deconstruct the various ways films suggest particular meanings about these potent issues. The structure of the course will be significantly dialogical, involving critical discussion of selected films and reading materials. Students will be required to do weekly writing assignments that critically analyze the films in relation to assigned readings, class discussion and their own reflection.	3	06:15PM-09:15PM	T	DECH	207	J.
