

Office of Graduate Studies & Research

Graduate Assistantship - Department of Public Health & Prevention Sciences College of Education and Health Sciences

Benefit: 25% Tuition Discount for 10 hours of work/week

Assistantship Responsibilities:

- Assist the faculty members in the Department with their ongoing research projects in the areas of, but not limited to GIS, Community Nutrition, COVID19 & Adverse Childhood Experience, and other projects
- Assist the faculty with IRB application, data collection, literature review, and manuscript preparation
- Manage research database
- Assist with implementation of research program grant including AmeriCorps project, NIH and other Federal grant preparation and implementation
- Assist faculty member with pedagogical initiative such as Service Learning, Student Focus Groups, PowerPoint preparation, etc.
- Assist Department with enrollment and retention efforts and special events
- Other relevant duties as assigned

Qualifications:

- Newly enrolled full-time graduate student at Baldwin Wallace University. Candidates enrolled in the Master of Public Health (MPH) program will be given preference.
- Must be available to work an average of 10 hours per week
- Must be detail-oriented
- Eager and motivated to learn and participate in collaborative research
- Must have the willingness to look at problems with creative, solution-focused approaches
- Have strong time management and organizational skills